The prairie summer has been an unusual one in every way, and, up to the present, no one but a pessimist would register a kick against the autumn weather we have been enjoying. There was just the right amount of moisture to help the crops and lots of sunshine. Quite a number of sloughs have dried up and the water in Buffalo Lake has dropped six inches, but there were enough left in which to sail and fish.

The tax rate for Innisfail this year is 50 mills. A business tax of 20 per cent. rental value is also imposed.

According to Passport

An amazing story—shows the value of the passport system—comes from Russia. Prince Matchevsky, who in the Journal mirror was commisioned by the Czar to investigate certain agrarian troubles. The Prince was given a passport which contained one of the permits necessary for taking livestock across the frontier.

Then he went to a Russian frontier post, presented his passport to the official, and was sent to pass. The official could read but little in Russian, so he had to show him the big document, with the coat of arms and seal, greatly impressed him and he was allowed to pass the Russian official's stamp on it.

His investigations ended, the Prince was about to leave, but the official opportunely presented the passport to the governor, saying:

"We have here a man who entered Russia, and travelled about for five months yet you must admit that the description of his passport is not correct."

The charged governor rest that the Prince was one black sow, not grown with one ear, partly torn away.

Circumstances, Etc.

Mrs. H. H. Davis holds this on the European plan?

Mr. Brown (in preoccupied tones from behind his paper)—Yes, my dear, I am.

Mrs. B.—I'm not feeling hungry this morning, but I'll have to take some coffee and tea.

Mr. B. (laying aside paper)—What were you doing last night? On the European plan? No, it is not.

Mrs. B. (to water)—You may have heard of the terrible fire at Debora's nightclubs.

He was very indignant at having to wear anything but a coat and a hat round the neck and on the back.

He can't stand it, mother, he protested loudly on the second night; I won't wear anything so ugly, I'll just sit down and die.

gentleman entered the office and saw the youth.

He said, "Charlie! Charlie, eh? he ex-claims genially. You're getting to look more and more like your father, though you are not quite as tall as he is."

I am sending you some manuscript, wrote the budding author. I also inclose a letter of introduction from the author of From the Earth and a paragraph from our local paper, telling of my adoption of a literary career.

Dear Madam, wrote the newspaper editor in reply, you need me but one thing—a good short story.

Not Hurry Socially

I would appreciate it with him, I understand he has served him in prison.

That's true, but it was for an offense involving a million dollars or more; nothing really disgraceful, you know.

The Character of His Excellence

I tell you, son, no man is as bad as the man from the dimly-lighted corridor of a concert hall. I envy that fellow who was singing.

He's like a dog, a dog, a dog. Well if I were going to envy a singer I'd select somebody else.

It is the poorest, the poorest. I ever heard of. Not his voice I envy, man, it's his reply. It's his tremendous courage.

Knew Him Well

A certain cantankerous old gentleman long ago advertised for a companion, who was required, among other things, to be a good intimate acquaintance with the neighborhood; but, to his great surprise, he received no applications for the vacant post.

"I don't understand it at all," he said, as during a chat one day with an old hortier at the local library store.

"Let me see," said the latter, as a gleam of intelligence lit up across his face. "You must be well acquainted with the neighborhood, didn't you?"

"I am, a man of the neighborhood, shortly. I went some one who knew the way about."

"Ah, that explains it. Was the answer yes, they who knew the neighborhood well know you, too."

Eternal Vigilance

The advertising merchant is the one who does the business in these days of push and enterprise. There are no new-supermarkets today than ever before in the history of the world. The advertising merchant can see what you have and your wants before the eyes of buyers, who see what they want and knowing where to find it, look up the wideawake merchant who wants him to come and buy his goods. Success in these days of sharp competition calls for eternal vigilance. You cannot keep a hulster down.

Advertising Counteracts

The Mail Order Business

Perhaps the readers of THE JOURNAL imagine that it is having a great deal to say with regard to mail order houses. We admit that it has, but no more than other papers throughout the country. Even the city dailies are entering into the movement of showing the public that they can buy better goods for less money than the local merchant, than they can get from the mail order houses.

The following article was published by the Clarensfield Review under the heading "Heard the Mail Order Houses," and deals principally with the manner in which local merchants should advertise to get best results, at the same time suggesting to the public that it pays to watch the ads. of merchants who advertise in this manner. It also backs up our statement in last week's issue that if a merchant ad. doesn't pay him, it is his own fault.

(Clarensfield Review)

If the merchants of this town wish to stem the tide of out-of-town buying they should take a leaf out of the book of our local jeweler. In his ad. which appears in this issue he challenges the ladies to make out their list from Eaton's catalogue and he will fill it to the letter from his own stock. He says he can give them a choice of other patterns at better than Eaton's prices.

The point we wish to make is that by persistent advertising the mail order houses have given the people the impression that the merchant's prices are so far above their own that the buyer takes it for granted and the home merchant does nothing to counteract the local merchant.

If the local merchant would study the mail order catalogues and then let the public know that he carries many lines at prices as good as offered by the out-of-towners, he could do much to induce buying at home. The merchant who advertises specifically bargains against the confidence of the public. Far better than making general statements as to who you are and what business you follow is mentioning concrete examples of what you are offering for sale with your prices. Take a few each week and if you are quoting legitimate prices and living up to your announcement, you seem to hold the trade and make a name and reputation for your store as a place of bargains.

U. S. Cost of Living

Washington, Sept. 15th.—The cost of living on June 15, was approximately 60 per cent. higher than the average between 1890 and 1900; more than three per cent. higher than it was a year ago and nearly 15 per cent. higher than it was two years ago. Investigations of retail prices in forty cities conducted by experts of the Bureau of Labor show prices practically at the same level as last November when the records of the last quarter century were reached.

Fourteen articles of food were investigated, and compared with the average prices between 1890 and 1900. Every one except sugar showed a marked increase. Bacon, which had won up 128.5 per cent. Other articles were: Pork chops, 111 per cent.; ground steak, 102.7; salted ham, 84.8; 76.8; sirloin steak, 75.2; rib roast, 76; lard, 61.5; corn meal, 57.3; potatoes, 44.4; butter, 41.3; eggs, 40.8; milk, 38.4; flour, 28.6. During the same period sugar declined 8 per cent.

During the last year, prices of eleven of the 15 articles investigated went up bacon advanced 16.2 per cent.; smoked ham, 11.1; pork chops, 13.4; ham, 11.8; eggs, 11.7; round steak, 10.1; sirloin steak, 9.8; lard, 7.2; rib roast, 6.8; per cent; butter, 5.8; milk, 4.1. The investigation covered all portions of the United States.

A HANDSOME PIECE OF LITERATURE

One of the most attractive and exceedingly well executed pieces of railway literature has just been issued by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and is entitled "The Canadian Rockies-Yellowhead Pass Route." The description matter deals with the opening up and introducing to tourists and travellers a fresh new outing place, that will, in a short time become the show place of America. The "Last Wonderland" which is dealt with in this publication is that portion of Canada between Edmonton and Fort George and is a land abounding in big things, a vast a hitherto unknown section in the Central and North Western part of Western Canada, probably the most wild and romantic region on the American Continent.

The cover page of this book is printed in several colors and embellished with gold; the subject of the title page being the Alpine village on the upper reaches of Mount Robson. The inside is printed on fine coated paper, engraved, and the illustrations give one a splendid idea of this new magnificent mountain district that has been pierced by the Grand Trunk Pacific. Included with the book is a new map of the territory and the best one that has been published, having been compiled in part from Topographical Surveys by the Alpine Club of Canada and the surveys of the Grand Trunk Pacific engineers. The map covers Jasper Park, Alta., Mount Robson, B.C., and that portion of the Canadian Rockies between the Foot Hills and Tete Jaune.

Copies of the publication may be had for the asking on application to any Grand Trunk Pacific Agent or to W. P. Hinton, General Passenger Agent, Winnipeg.

A Farmer living in the district, by keeping careful accounts has found by feeding to his cattle and selling the latter in prime condition, his oats and barley have netted him over a Dollar a Bushel. Mr. Farmer, do you realize that you are in a position to make that Dollar a Bushel in every year? You need not fear a hard storm, nor frost, nor any of the climatic conditions that affect grain, as in nine cases out of ten you can feed the spoiled grain to Stock. We are willing to pay the highest price for stock of all kinds and guarantee you a market all seasons of the year. Farm Schools

(Continued from page 4) progress in the arts and sciences of agriculture. To them such a thing would not have come within the purview of the wildest flights of their imagination. They would probably have deemed there was no room for the study of agriculture under the old methods. But the world has marched on and the demand now is for the greatest production of the best quality of food products, and this is the case in farming, the foundation of all the commercial activity of the west.

There is inherent in each of us to a greater or lesser extent the creative faculty and it is in order that this may be brought and made use of to some practical purpose by the rising generation that the Department of Agriculture has taken this matter up and instituted schools where our boys may receive thorough instruction in the needs of all the great professions. The writer's own regret is that he is neither young enough nor has a son old enough to take advantage of this splendid opportunity.

The course, which is for two years, embraces work in animal husbandry, field husbandry and farm mechanics, while dairy agriculture will be given to instruction in farm management, farm book keeping, agricultural physics, chemistry and bacteriology, and in mathematics and English literature. The course is well founded and aims to turn out students who are not educated away from the farm.

If any student wishes to attend this school he may do so at the minimum age of 14, and without having previously had any special academic training. He will receive a diploma in agriculture after successfully completing a two-year course. This will entitle them to enter the third year in the proposed Alberta Agricultural College.

In addition the school offers this year, during the month of January and February, a course in Household Science, to women. The Department will give to any young lady who wishes to avail herself of this opportunity.

There is no tuition fee for either the Agricultural or Household Science Course, the student being at the expense only of board and lodging and of necessary books--Ex.

The cover of "How to start a Rifle Club" shows in the background the flags of the six nations which have accomplished the most in educating the youths of their respective countries in the proper use of the Rifle and in the practice of target shooting.

Every boy and every boy's father, guardian or school teacher should send for this splendid booklet at once.
